Due to the limited file extension added in the csv, the file extensions chosen did not have a lot of activity, most of the access happening within the first week from a single user, and one file being accessed by one user 50 weeks later.

Purple could have left the project shortly after development as after week 5 he/she seems to drop off and blue and green take over.

I did not use a lot of git commands as I used the github desktop and web site to handle more of the forking, merging and editing. However I have done cmd lines in the past and I think it's a lot easier with the desktop and web page open.
